

13.0 WORKPLACE HAZARDOUS MATERIALS INFORMATION SYSTEM POLICY (WHMIS 2015)

13.1 Purpose

The purpose of this procedure is to outline the Workplace Hazardous Materials Information System (WHMIS), which is a communication system on hazardous materials in the workplace from the suppliers of hazardous products to employers and to workers through the three key elements of:

- a. WHMIS Labeling (Pictograms),
- b. Safety Data Sheets (SDS), and
- c. WHMIS Worker Training and Education.

WHMIS legislation exists at both the federal and provincial levels. The goal of WHMIS is to reduce injury and disease by communicating specific health and safety information about hazardous products so that the information can be used to reduce exposure to hazardous materials.

13.2 Globally Harmonized System of Classification and Labelling of Chemicals (GHS)

Canada's WHMIS standard came into effect in 1988. Since then, our trade with countries that don't have systems like WHMIS has increased, and new products (and hazards) have been introduced. There are differences in how other countries classify chemicals, develop Safety Data Sheets (SDSs), and organize their labels. This can cause confusion and make it difficult to enforce and to comply with the WHMIS standard. Ultimately, this confusion threatens the health and safety of workers both here and abroad.

As a result, Canada has now aligned the Workplace Hazardous Materials Information System (WHMIS) with the Globally Harmonized System of Classification and Labelling of Chemicals (GHS). The original WHMIS, developed in 1988, is not being replaced. Rather, it has been updated to reflect elements of the Globally Harmonized System. The Globally Harmonized System will now be legislated worldwide. Once updated, the system will continue to be called WHMIS in Canada (WHMIS 2015).

Once the 2015 WHMIS legislation is in-force, there will be approximately a three-year transition period during which suppliers can provide safety data sheets and labels that comply with either system.

13.3 Labeling: Supplier Labels (2015)

All hazardous products that will be sold or used on site will contain the following six pieces of information on the supplier label:

1. Product Identifier

Often the chemical name of a product or the trade name, common name, code name, or code number.

“Controls” are practices, procedures and standards, which a company and ultimately a worker use to prevent incidents from occurring or to limit the amount of harm or damage that occurs when an incident happens.

3.5 Risk Control

There are 3 steps involved in risk control:

1. Recognize the Hazard – identify hazards with a particular job or worksite.
2. Evaluate the hazard or situation –what controls could eliminate or reduce the risk?
3. Control the Hazard – plan, implement and evaluate control measures that provide the greatest protection to workers.

3.6 Types of Controls

There are four types of controls that are commonly used to minimize risk:

1. Eliminate the hazard.
2. “Engineering” controls provide the highest level of hazard control and are considered the best methods because it involves the removal of the hazard through the use or substitution of engineered machinery or equipment. The installation of seat belts on mobile equipment is an example of this.
3. “Administrative” controls include safe work procedures, processes, methods or instructions that are developed and implemented to ensure worker safety.
4. “Personal Protective Equipment” is the most common and accessible kind of control and involves direct protection of the worker. It is the last line of defense in the hierarchy of controls.

3.7 Risk Rating and Ranking

Hazards identified at the worksite must be evaluated as to the degree of risk associated with the unsafe work condition or practice. ABC Company Ltd. will utilize the risk ranking method of “A, B, C” where:

- a. “A” identifies an imminent hazard that requires corrective action immediately.
- b. “B” identifies a hazardous condition or practice, which is not imminently dangerous but requires corrective action without delay.
- c. “C” identifies a low hazard situation or practice that requires documenting and tracking as to corrective action.
